The staff at the Health Sciences Library are your link to health information. Whether you are researching a topic, writing a paper, or looking up information about your patient, we are here to help.

Visiting the Library
Need to use the library computers? Make sure you have an Eservices login. Don’t have one? Stop by the Library Service Desk to get assistance on getting started using the Library.

Take a Class or Learn Online
Whether you want to learn in a classroom, online, or one-on-one, the library offers many opportunities to learn. See our Online Tutorials and Find a Class links from our Web page for links to dozens of educational topics.

Connect From Off Grounds
To access library resources from home, you will be prompted for a NetBadge login, which is the same system used to access your UVa e-mail. Alternatively, you can install the “Moore Access” browser button for UVa-level access from any non-UVa site. See http://www.hsl.virginia.edu/services/howdoi/hdi-proxy-button.cfm.

Resources from the Library

Your Favorite Medical Journals and Books—Online!
Locate your favorite journal online via our E-Journals link, or book from the E-books link on the Library Web page. In addition, use Virgo, the library catalog, to search for thousands of online books, from statistical manuals to laboratory protocols.

Locate Current Journal Articles
Looking for information on a specific topic? Locate references using PubMed—available under Databases on the Library’s Web page. Within PubMed, use the Find@UVA button to link to library-owned articles.

Library Doesn’t Own the Article You Need?
Let us get it for you with ILLiad, our interlibrary loan system. We can obtain journal articles or books that the Library does not own at no cost to you. Click on ILLiad Interlibrary Loan from the home page to make your request.

Create a Bibliography with RefWorks—it’s Easy!
Do you dread putting together the bibliography and footnotes for a paper? If so, find out about RefWorks. With RefWorks, easily import your citations into this Web-based database so you can later create a bibliography in APA or other formats. Available from the Library’s home page.

How Do I Get Additional Help?

Contact Your Liaison Librarian
Let us come to your department meeting for an on-site presentation and demonstration of Library products and services. This can be done in a group or one-on-one setting. Your librarian can create a session tailored to your specific needs.

Find the librarian for your School or Department by selecting In the Library then Help, then Liaison Librarians from the Library home page.
